

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

JOHN WANAMAKER,
Plaintiff,

No. C 15-04058 WHA

v.

COUNTY OF MARIN, SHELLY
NELSON, MICHAEL FROST, CRAIG
TACKABERY, and DOES 1–20, inclusive,
Defendants.

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' MOTION FOR PARTIAL JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS

INTRODUCTION

In this sexual harassment action, defendants move for partial judgment on the pleadings as to two of the individual defendants and as to the claim for negligent hiring, supervision, and retention against the County of Marin. For the reasons stated herein, defendants' motion is GRANTED.

STATEMENT

The following well-pled facts are assumed to be true for purposes of the present motion. From 2006 through 2014, plaintiff experienced repeated unwanted sexual advances by defendant Shelly Nelson, who was his supervisor. Defendant Nelson repeatedly used vulgar language and touched plaintiff on his back, shoulder, arms, and chest. She repeatedly attempted to sit too close to him and touch his thigh. She also repeatedly exposed her chest by wearing low-cut clothing. This conduct continued despite plaintiff's complaints to various higher-ups,

1 including defendants Michael Frost and Craig Tackabery, who were both Deputy Directors in
2 Public Works (Compl. ¶¶ 19–60).

3 On September 4, 2015, plaintiff filed this action against defendants Nelson, Frost,
4 Tackabery, and the County of Marin asserting 15 claims, including claims for sexual
5 harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and negligent hiring, supervision, and retention, amount
6 others. Defendants now move for judgment on the pleadings as to defendants Frost and 7 Tackabery. Defendants also move for judgment on the pleadings as to the claim for negligent
8 hiring, supervision, and retention against the County. Defendants do not move for judgment on 9 the pleadings as to the remaining claims against defendant Nelson and the County. Plaintiff
10 asks for dismissal without prejudice of defendants Frost and Tackabery.

11 ANALYSIS

12 Our court of appeals has held that “[j]udgment on the pleadings is properly granted
13 when, accepting all factual allegations in the complaint as true, there is no issue of material fact
14 in dispute, and the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.” Chavez v. United
15 States, 683 F.3d 1102, 1108–09 (9th Cir. 2012). Analysis under Rule 12(c) is substantially
16 identical to analysis under Rule 12(b)(6) because, under both rules, a court must determine
17 whether the facts alleged in the complaint, taken as true, entitle the plaintiff to a legal remedy.
18 Ibid.

19 1. CLAIMS AGAINST DEFENDANTS CRAIG TACKABERY AND MICHAEL FROST.

20 Plaintiff’s complaint asserts 15 claims, some against defendant Shelly Nelson and others
21 against the County of Marin. None of those claims are asserted against defendants Craig
22 Tackabery and Michael Frost. Defendants’ motion for judgment on the pleadings as to 23 defendants Tackabery and Frost is therefore GRANTED. Plaintiff’s voluntary dismissal against 24 these defendants is DENIED AS MOOT.

25 2. CLAIMS FOR NEGLIGENT HIRING, SUPERVISION, AND RETENTION.

26 Under the California Government Claims Act, a public entity is not liable for injury for 27 common law claims “except as otherwise provided by statute.” Section 815(a); see Miklosy v.
28

1 Regents of University of California, 44 Cal. 4th 876, 899 (2008). Therefore, a claim against a
2 public entity like the county must allege a statutory basis for liability.

3 Plaintiff asserts two theories of liability on the part of the County — direct liability and
4 vicarious liability. For the reasons discussed below, both theories fail.

5 A. Direct Liability.

6 In de Villers v. Cty. of San Diego, the California Court of Appeal held that a direct claim
7 against a governmental entity asserting negligent hiring and supervision must be grounded in a
8 breach of a statutorily imposed duty owed by the entity to the injured party. de Villers v. Cty. of 9 San Diego, 156 Cal. App. 4th 238, 255-56 (2007). The court noted that “[w]e find no relevant
10 case law approving a claim for direct liability based on a public entity’s allegedly negligent
11 hiring and supervision practices.” Id. at 252.

12 Plaintiff argues that Civil Code Section 1714 provides a statutory basis for direct
13 liability by the County. The California Supreme Court has concluded, however, that Section
14 1714 is “an insufficient statutory basis for imposing direct liability on public agencies.”
15 Eastburn v. Regional Fire Protection Authority, 31 Cal. 4th 1175, 1180 (2003). At the hearing,
16 plaintiff’s counsel conceded that Section 1714 is not applicable here. Plaintiff therefore fails to 17 allege a basis for direct liability.

18 B. Vicarious Liability.

19 Plaintiff next argues that the County is vicariously liable for the negligence of 20 defendants Tackabery and Frost in their supervision of defendant Nelson. Under Section 815.2,
21 a public entity is liable for injury caused by an act or omission of an employee within the scope
22 of his or her employment if the act or omission would give rise to a cause of action against that 23 employee. Plaintiff’s theory for vicarious liability under Section 815.2 therefore rests on 24 whether defendants Tackabery or Frost could themselves be liable for negligent supervision of 25 Defendant Nelson.

26 Plaintiff fails to show that defendants Tackabery or Frost could be individually liable for 27 negligent supervision of Defendant Nelson. The California Supreme Court has held that 28 individual employees cannot be liable to third parties for negligent hiring, retention, or

1 supervision in the absence of a “special relationship.” C.A. v. William S. Hart Union High Sch.
2 Dist., 53 Cal. 4th 861, 869 (2012). The situation here is quite different from the circumstances
3 in which California courts have found the existence of a “special relationship.” In C.A. v.
4 William S. Hart Union High School District, the court held that school administrators could be
5 individually liable for their negligence in the hiring, supervision, and retention of a school
6 employee who sexually harassed and abused a student. The court grounded its holding in the 7 “special relationship” between administrators and their students, which the court analogized to 8 that between parents and their children. Id. at 869.

9 At the hearing, plaintiff’s counsel argued that a special relationship exists between 10 employees and employers such that liability should attach here as in the school context. This 11 argument fails. The relevant question is not whether plaintiff had a special relationship with his 12 employer (the County), but whether he had a special relationship with defendants Frost and 13 Tackabery. Plaintiff alleges no special relationship with defendants Frost and Tackabery such 14 that liability could attach. Moreover, plaintiff cites to no authority that relationships in the 15 employment context are akin to the relationships between school administrators and their 16 students.

17 Plaintiff has failed to identify a statutory basis for his negligence claim against the 18 County. As such, defendants’ motion for judgment on the pleadings as to the claim for 19 negligent hiring, supervision, and retention against the County is GRANTED.

20 CONCLUSION

21 For the reasons stated herein, defendants’ motion for judgment on the pleadings as to 22 defendants Tackabery and Frost is GRANTED. Defendants’ motion for judgment on the 23 pleadings as to the claim for negligent hiring, supervision, and retention against the County is 24 GRANTED. Plaintiff’s voluntary dismissal of defendants Tackabery and Frost is DENIED AS
25 MOOT. The remaining claims against the County and defendant Nelson are not affected by this 26 order.

27 Plaintiff may seek leave to amend the complaint and will have until JUNE 30, 2016 AT
28 NOON, to file a motion, noticed on the normal 35–day calendar, for leave to file an amended

1 complaint. A proposed amended complaint must be appended to this motion. Plaintiff should
2 plead his best case. The motion should clearly explain how the amended complaint cures the
3 deficiencies identified herein, and should include as an exhibit a redlined or highlighted version
4 identifying all changes.
